What the Webinar Offers

An expert witness is a person with specialized education, knowledge, professional experience, skills, and training in a particular field who is called upon to provide expertise in civil or criminal hearings and trials to assist jurors and judges with understanding complex technical issues. Being qualified as an expert to testify in civil/criminal court trials and administrative hearings will be the most prestigious and financially lucrative accomplishment of your professional career. Expert witnesses are paid hundreds of dollars per hour for incident review, testimony preparation, and testimony at trial and deposition.

About the Instructor

Professional endorsement: I am the Assistant Vice President of Claims for an insurance company with a significant public entity business. We provide first-dollar coverage for liability exposures in cities and counties nationally. Corrections and Police liability are a significant part of that exposure. We try a high percentage of our liability claims because of the nature of the business. Over the last several years, we have sought out Howard Webb's expertise to assist in evaluating these difficult cases and serve as an expert witness for us in state and federal court trials. We have found Mr. Webb extremely effective in the evaluation stage because of his tremendous knowledge and ability to identify and analyze issues. In addition, we have found his expert testimony at trial to be crucial to our success rate in defending corrections and police misconduct charges. It is clear from the results that the juries and judges have found his testimony to be credible and convincing.

Howard has demonstrated the ability to adeptly explain to juries the basis for officers' actions and the training that supports them. I highly recommend Howard Webb to anyone who needs a trial expert witness or to review a case for liability analysis.

Sincerely yours, James R. McWilliams, Assistant Vice President - Claims Manager, Northland Insurance Companies.
